“ Gary, Ron & Denene and families:

Sorry to learn of your dad's passing. He lived a good long life and made the best of it in his later years. His contributions to the various organizations to which he belonged will long be remembered as well as the many acquaintances he met along the way. Your dad was always interested in our family and updates. One of my favorite memories of your dad and family was the "baler fish fry". How could I forget Aunt Esther's sour cream raisin pie. Wish all of you the best.

“ I truly enjoyed George. He was a wealth of knowledge and very close to my late uncle, Bud Godbey. We always discussed old times they had, and George had a heart felt laugh, that made you laugh with him. He will be missed in Greenview and surrounding communities. Sadly, that generation is very reduced now. RIP, George.

“ George Deverman stood out in my mind as a boy, as a representative excellent farmer and all round good man, husband and father in our rural farming community. But in his passing I now realize he was unusual for these numerous outstanding qualities that both he and his equally wonderful, energetic and joyful wife Doris passed down to their children and on further. I remember George and my father (just a year younger and also a Navy veteran of WW2) in lengthy spirited conversations at the numerous American Legion potlucks we all looked forward to attending, There, also in attendance were his endearing parents Otto and Esther representing the era before- with Otto's WW1 service; then returning to Greenview and its good earth to carry on the farming tradition. I text a friend after reading of Mr. Deverman's passing (by text Saturday morning) that both George and Doris always responded warmly to me from the time I entered First Grade with their daughter Denene, ever since a longtime friend. They asked questions and cared about my interests and endeavors and this continued through the years. These acknowledgements from admired adults in a community helps foster further productivity and reaching for goals from each generation. Somehow, I hadn't thought much about it until Saturday morning, but I then realized George Deverman was a class act. From his always appropriate appearance, to his presence at church, to the words he spoke in his unique tone and thoughtful way. . . As these chapters of lives fully lived close, we must learn and appreciate how much it means to a community to have men like George Deverman.
