“ In the middle 50s on the south side, Bob, Larry McFarlin, me, my brother Marshall, and more of my family and other friends were together probably every day. We played softball, basketball, hunted, fished, played penny poker, whatever came up. Some of my fondest memories were of Bob clearing snow off his bare ground basketball court across from his house in the middle of winter and out there shooting baskets. Rest in peace, my friend.

“Bob-Mo” was a good friend as well as his wife who I worked with as a school bus driver. We played baseball together and we were life long friends, now they are together. Prayers to his family.
Sincerely, Doug
