“ I worked for the IDNR and talked to Rod a few times about fish problems I had in my pond at home. Bryon N

“ Some Rod Memories

Rod did grocery shopping for Aunt Corn and would ride his bicycle over to Main Street, get two sacks of groceries and the ride home holding the sacks hands free of the handlebars. I never figured out how he did that!

Fishing in Cross Lake with Darrell and me when I was 15 years old. Dad had painted some signs for one of his friends who owned a fishing resort. We spent two weeks fishing, fishing and more fishing.

I always thought Rod had the perfect job. Checking lakes and ponds and carrying his shotgun during hunting season to take a pheasant or two.

I went with Rod at a local lake when he was shocking the lake to sample the fish population. That was so much fun, and Rod was so informing about the fish we caught and the sample numbers. He was a fisheries biologist at this time.

I never kept track of the numerous rabbits hunts we went on but neither of us could wait for hunting season each year. Fall with Rod was my favorite time of the year.

And who could forget Christmas Eve at Aunt Corn's and Uncle Jack's with Rod directing all the cousins present in the front room with all of the old time Christmas Carols!

Rod always treated me like a brother instead of a cousin, I will always remember the good time we has together and I will always miss him.

“ Jeanette and family, I'm so sorry for your loss. I always enjoyed talking to Rod. He had such a broad knowledge, and I know this will leave a big gap in your life. The good memories help.

“ I remember my dad knew your dad as working with fish, so when our son, Nate decided to raise fish in our old swimming pool for an FFA project and they all started dying my dad brought your dad up to investigate. I think it a tally stumped your dad. I appreciated him trying to figure out what was going on. Also seeing your parents every Sunday in church all those years. They both were devoted Christians. Our condolences to your family, Jan and Tim Anderson
