“ Rose was certainly a joy to my dad and many others. Dad and she enjoyed traveling together, going out to eat, and connecting with friends. Rose was an avid reader, wonderful seamstress and quilter, an absolutely incredible cook and gardener. Her flower gardens were absolutely breath taking. She was an amazing cook and baker, making the best meals and caramels ever! I recall the family gatherings on July 4th on their lakefront property in Metamora....and simply hanging out to spend time together as a family. As life moved forward, dad and she would attend dinners with us--always showing up with a delicious homemade baked item. She was always pleasant, appreciative, and enjoyed family gatherings, especially being entertained by grandkids and eating chocolates! She was also able to play a great game of dominos and enjoyed beating dad, even over the past year. We've missed conversing with her over the past few years, yet her beautiful, contagious smile and pleasant nature stayed with her throughout her journey on this earth. We rejoice as she celebrates her new life in heaven with dad, daughter and other family members that preceded her. Rose, know that you were loved.
